

CHAPTER X

“WHO BEING DEAD YET SPEAKETH”

“He who loves not lives not; he who lives by the Life can not die.”—Raymund Lull.

“One step farther, but some slight response from his church or his age, and Raymund Lull would have anticipated William Carey by exactly seven centuries.”—George Smith.

NEANDER does not hesitate to compare Raymund Lull with Anselm, whom he resembled in possessing the threefold talents uncommon among men and so seldom found in one character: namely, a powerful intellect, a loving heart, and efficiency in practical things. If we acknowledge that Lull possessed these three divine gifts, we at once place him at the front as the true type of what a missionary to Moslems should be to-day.
