

Chicxulub impact: The origin of reservoir and seal facies in the southeastern Mexico oil fields

The K-T breccia reservoir and seal ejecta layer of the Cantarell oil field, with a current daily production of 1.3 million barrels of oil, are probably the most important known oil-producing units related to an impact event.

