Dear Tom:

The notes on Colatians are an outline for what I hope to work up into a handbook type commentary for students. I would appreciate your honest opinion of the approach and the exercises. It is not my intention to impress anybody I really want an honest evaluation cutting cruel and ego reducing. We have many contact with high school & college students in our work. If a half-dozen handbook containing this Bible Study and an explanation of our position etc. could be put together it could be well utilized. I am aware that revision is necessary so that is why I am seeking expert advice.

If it takes too much of your time that will make me very happy since I have been trying to think of some way to get you back for beating me at golf.

Sincerely,
J. Branley.

P.S. Romano is in process now for an IVF Conference.
